DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 5, 7, and 9-11 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Futamoto et al. (US 6403203).

Futamoto et al. disclose a magnetic recording medium having an underlayer comprising a first underlayer formed from CrTi and a second underlayer formed from CoCr having an Ms value of 100 emu/cc or less, a perpendicular magnetic recording layer and a protective overcoat. The reference also teaches the use of a soft magnetic layer between the substrate and the underlayer. See col. 1, lines 10-13; col. 5, lines 45-60; col. 6, lines 11-16; col. 11, lines 30-59).

With respect to claim 7, it is noted that the claimed range of “equal or less than 1 nm” encompasses an embodiment in which the “initial growth portion of the intermediate film” has a thickness of zero. Futamoto et al. discloses at least this embodiment wherein the initial growth portion has a thickness of zero and thus, is not present.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1773

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Futamoto et al.

(US 6403203).

Futamoto et al. teach all of the limitations of the claims except for the claimed Cr content of equal to or less than 34 at%. The reference does disclose several examples using 35 at% Cr and indicates that Ms should be 100 emu/cc or less. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to determine the optimal amount of Cr to use in the CoCr intermediate layer in order to achieve a Ms value within the desired parameters. Furthermore, there does not appear to be any distinction in the properties of the article, the numbers are so close, they appear to overlap. In any event these values would be minor obvious variations and expected to have the same properties. See Titanium Metals Corporation vs Banner, 778 F. d. 775, 227 USPQ 773 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 4 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The closest prior art to Futamoto et al. fails to teach or suggest the claim limitations requiring an intermediate layer formed from CoCrPtB having the claimed Ms value and the use of an amorphous orientation control film.
